Harper's Magazine for July begins the number with a very interesting article concerning Mount Cenis tunnel and railway. The writer describes well how the great work was done, giving much information about the peculiar machinery used, and the ingenuity brought into requisition to adapt it to the proposed work. It is illustrated as are also several other articles which follow.

"How we met John Brown," is the opening article in the July Atlantic Monthly, by R. H. Dana. It is refreshing to read this able writer's narration of some of the traits concerning the noted hero, who died a martyr for an eternal principle. Succeeding it is the usual series of productions from those among the best writers of the times. John Hay, Bret Hart, John G. Saxe, T. W. Higginson, are among the contributors, both in prose and verse. This number begins volume 28 of the Atlantic. Osgood & Co., Boston.

The Phrenological Journal enters on its 52d volume in July. Accompanied by a portrait is a sketch of the great American ornithologist, Audubon. A Rule for editors, is an article which all the profession should read; and the writer puts the standard so high—not too high—that but few of us are competent to reach it. The only way is to come as near it as possible. Any number of essays on numerous subjects go to fill this number—and we print to-day Floating and Rowing, which the young, especially should read. S. R. Wells, N. Y.

That pleasant little visitor, the Nursery, beginning its 10th volume, greets its tiny America with an abundance of pictures and primative reading, well suited to their wants. It is a model work of the kind, and meets with approval in every household where it is introduced. John L. Shorey, Boston.

Among the evils under the sun is that of borrowing books and not returning them, or if returned they are often mutilated and destroyed almost past usefulness. A book owner once lived, and who was troubled with borrowers, had labels printed and put in his books with his name as owner, and the following appropriate lines annexed:

If knowledge you seek in a book on my shelf,
Remember, next week, I may want it myself;
Or, haply, the book to-day you may borrow,
I vainly may seek to find on the morrow.

Such a hint staring a book borrower in the face should be such forcible reminder of moral duty as to induce a prompt return of the article, and in good condition. The last Hearth and Home has the following appropriate remarks on the subject. Read and obey.

BOOK BORROWERS.

If there is one small vice which people are given to more than another, it is that of borrowing and never returning books. How many families are there who have not one or more stray volumes about the house belonging to a neighbor or friend? Some people, who would regard themselves as cruelly outraged were they charged with theft, think it no sin to appropriate books, or what is the same thing, never return them to owners.

We read of distinguished bibliopoles who even steal books from public libraries or those of friends. A remarkable instance of this kind has recently come to light in St. Petersburg. For the past two years valuable volumes and manuscripts have been disappearing in a most mysterious manner from the Russian Imperial library. The directors resorted to all manner of means for the discovery of the culprit. A decree was issued forbidding all persons employed about the building or visiting it, from wearing furs, overcoats, paletots, mantles, or other loose outside garments under which books could be concealed. People might read in frock coats, tunics, and swallow tails, but not in mantles or capes. The porters were instructed to remove at once the latter from all such as declined to remove them themselves. The well known German author and theologian, Dr. Pichler, was appointed head of the library in 1868. Inasmuch as he was in delicate health, he was excused from conforming to the above regulations. The other day, one of the porters, while assisting him to put on his overcoat, felt something preternaturally hard about the doctor's back. Suspicion flashed across his mind in a moment. He quickly thrust his hand down the doctor's back, and drew out a handsomely bound volume of folios. The imperial police immediately visited Herr Pichler's house, and discovered between six and seven thousand works, which the doctor had in this manner removed from the library, together with manuscripts valued at nearly five thousand dollars. The writer recalls a college acquaintance who, from being looked upon as a most exemplary young man by faculty and fellow-students, was found to have sent away trunk after trunk of books belonging to members of his own and other classes. Pinnelli constantly reinforced his own treasures by secretly filching those of others. It was found after his death that Sir Robert Cotton had extended the famous Cottontonian collection by stealing records, evidences, ledger books, original letters, and other state papers belonging to King Charles. Bishop Moore, the famous book gatherer, collected his library, says the historian, by plundering those of the clergy in his diocese. A friend was found one day hiding his rarest books and locking up as many as he could. On being asked why he did so, replied: "The bishop dines with me to day." Sir Robert Saville, in introducing to a friend the founder of the Bodleian library, cautioned his friend that if he held any book so dear that he would be loth to lose, he should not let Sir Thomas out of his sight, but set the book aside beforehand. The intense animosity entertained by Pope Innocent toward the French, was due to the fact that he was detected, when a young man, stealing a valuable book from a French collector, and exposed in a public manner.

But is not so much book purloiners as negligent borrowers that we now have in mind. There are many people who make a habitual practice of never returning anything in the literary line, from a newspaper to an encyclopedia volume. Owners feel a delicacy in asking them, and are often exceedingly annoyed at having their libraries scattered all over the neighborhood.

To obtain and retain books in this manner is to display marked evidence of thorough ill breeding. Others make it a point to obtain all their reading matter second hand. They wait for neighbors to buy new publications as they appear, and then loan them. This common practice is but little less contemptible than that of appropriating books outright. Still others return books, but in such a soiled, defaced condition. He who is fond of collecting volumes generally derives much enjoyment in keeping them neat, and perfect. He is fortunate if, after being loaned to some families, they are not brought back spotted with grease, torn, tattered and minus several pages. Could borrowers witness the intense disgust and indisposition often caused to owners by such treatment of their books, they would certainly be more careful about giving them to the juveniles to play with, or allowing the dogs to pull them about the floor.

It should be a maxim with all to return books, as soon as they have been read, in as neat a condition as possible Owners will take pleasure in loaning to those who do this.—Hearth and Home.

FLOATING OR ROWING.

It may be very pleasant to some,— it is certainly a very lazy life, this

"Floating down de riber,
On de O-hi-o."

The fact is, we float too much, and we row too little. It is this floating, instead of rowing, which draws us on and on to habits of indolence, unthrift, helplessness. "I could n't help it," "I can't," simply means floating. "I can," and "I will," mean rowing. A young man starts out in life resolved on having an easy time. He keeps this as he keeps no other resolution. He shuns real work, and seeks a position as bar tender in a drinking saloon, or as a stage or carriage driver, so that he can ride rather than walk; or he seeks a situation as keeper of a toll gate;—it is not hard work to take and make change, you know. Or failing this, he will offer his services to exhibit a horse, a machine, or take a situation in a custom house, where the duties are light, hours short, and pay enough to keep him in liquor, tobacco, and second hand clothing. He is not always expected to pay his board, for is not his society an ample equivalent for what he eats, and a place to sleep? He sings songs, plays on a fiddle, tells stories, and is entertaining. Another young man of like aspirations once joined a circus company and traveled for a time; but it was too hard work this pulling up stakes and changing places so often. The old anecdotes repeated by the clown were learned by heart, and as he was accustomed to do, were fired off for the amusement of stable boys, bar-room loafers, and other idlers. At one time he concluded that he would go on a whaling voyage. Here, he thought, was an opportunity for a long and lazy voyage, with plenty to eat, and but little work. He returned after a three year's trip, sharing the luck of all lazy fellows, having got more experience than oil. He returned once more to his friends, and now relates his hardships, and begs for sympathy and support. Poor fellow! the fates are against him, and he resigns himself to a season of repose. When rallied as to what he intends to do in the future, he replies, "I have nothing in view;" or, "Business is dull, there is no work to be done, but if there were ever so much, the pay is so poor; and while the old man has anything left, I prefer to stay with him; I may as well have it as any one." "But do you not intend to marry and have a home of your own?" "No; I can scarcely support myself, to say nothing of supporting a family. It costs me nearly all the change I can pick up for tobacco and something to drink." Poor fellow! what will he do for a home when the old folks depart? He has learned no trade; knows little or nothing of business, and is floating toward the poorhouse.

The young man who starts out in life intent on working his way up, expects to climb hills, overcome difficulties, endure defeats, suffer reverses, and row against tide currents, and breakers. But he will never float. He hears the roar of the cataract in the distance, and exerts himself to keep clear of it. It is the lazy floating boatman who is carried over!

Parents owe it to their children to wake up, call out and develop the latent powers with which they are endowed. We grant that the first duty, or business, or privilege of childhood is to grow,—to grow bodily rather than to overtask their brains and nerves. Still, they may—must—be trained to use their faculties in order to make headway in life. Over indulgence is as fatal as overwork. Every boy and every girl should be thoroughly impressed with the fact that self helpfulness is a duty, that idleness is a sin. It is true that

"Satan finds some mischief still,
For idle hands to do."

Give young children short hours for study; long hours for play, real earnest and hearty play, and all the time they need for perfect sleep, nature's sweet restorer. Lay out their work or studies, and see that they do it; so also their play and their sleep. If hard tasks be given to children, stand by them, encourage and help them through. Never overload a colt, or you spoil the horse. Teach children that there is real merit in achievments. One success will be followed by another; and when the boy becomes a man, he will go through, not around, a hard task. He will tunnel the mountain, when in his way; or force his way up the rapids, instead of lying on his oars and floating down the stream. It requires energy—combativeness, firmness, executiveness, and ambition to excel—to insure success in life. The absence of these manly qualities leaves the miserable creature among pitable imbeciles, and helpless paupers.

Young man, whither are you tending? Are you standing still, drifting on the tide, or lazily floating down the current? Are you already a miserable slave to nasty habits? Do you chew tobacco? smoke tobacco? snuff tobacco? and drink? Or, are you still clean mouthed, pure minded, and unperverted? In the one case you are on the road which leads to dissipation, disease, crime, and premature death; in the other,—if you live right,—you will rise in life, become a useful, successful, honored, and worthy citizen, growing in health, in grace, godliness, and will leave the world somewhat the better for your having lived in it. Choose ye, whether you will float or row your way through life, and suffer the sorrows of a misspent life; or enjoy the happiness which comes of obedience to the laws of God.—Phren. Journal.

A THOUSAND YEARS AGO.

It is certainly one of the greatest curiosities in history that exactly one thousand years ago, in the year of our Lord, 870, the people of France and Germany fought under their kings upon the same soil, that of Lorraine, for nearly the same reasons, and with the same result. This happened as follows: The empire of Charlemagne, and that of his son, who succeeded him, Ludwig I., called the Pious, was divided by his three sons, the grandsons of Charlemagne, in 843, at the Congress in Verdun, between them selves in such a manner that Lothaire received, beside the title of emperor, Italy and what was then called Middle Franconia, a strip of land running from the North sea to the Mediterranean, and their joining Upper Italy, a broad strip of land containing modern Holland, Belgium, and Lorraine, the French and all that part of Southern France lying between the Rone and Soane and the Alps on the east. Ludwig received Eastern Franconia, which from that time was called Germania, or Germany, and from which he, as Germany's first king, was called Ludwig the German.

Carl, who was called Bald, from his bald head, received Western Franconia, from that time called France. Lothaire died in 855, and again subdivided his empire among his three sons. To the oldest, Ludwig, he gave Italy and the crown and the title of emperor; to the second, Lothaire, the northern part of modern Holland, and Belgium, and the province called up to this day Lorraine or Lotharingen, the Alsace, and all the land extending down to the Soane. To the youngest, Carl, he he gave all the land south of the Soane Mediterranean, under the title of Kingdom of Provence.

In 869 Lothaire died without heirs, after he had previously become possessed also of his brother Carl's kingdom of Province, and it was then that Carl the Bald, King of France, stepped forward to take the sole possession of his nephew's kingdom, comprising all the eastern part of modern France, and from the Rone to the Alps, and from the North sea way down to the Mediterranean. He was completely successful, for his nephew Ludwig, the Emperor of Italy, and his brother Ludwig, the King of Germany, had both their hands full to claim their share of the rich inheritance.

But a year later, in 870, just one thousand years ago, suddenly a large and well appointed German army crossed the Rhine, broke into France, and defeated Carl the Bald and his armies at once, and so completely that he was compelled to sign a treaty of peace in the same year (870), by which he ceded to his brother, Ludwig the German, all the eastern part of those lands which he had appropriated from his nephew, and comprising the modern provinces of Alsace, Eastern Lorraine, and the territories around the cities of Trier, or Treves, Cologne, Mastricht and Utrecht, down to the mouth of the Rhine.

The first grand fight for the Rhine provinces on the part of France, and the Alsace, and Lorraine on the part of Germany, which is, after all, if not the sole cause, certainly one of the principal causes of the present war of 1870, took place just one thousand years ago, in 870, and with the same result.

UNDER THE MAPLE.

BY KATE P. OSGOOD.

The start it gave me just now to see,
As I stood in the doorway looking out,
Rob Greene at play by the maple tree,
Throwing the scarlet leaves about!

It carried me back a long, long way;
Ten years ago—how the time runs by!
There was nobody left at home that day
But little Jimmy and Father and I.

My husband's father an old, old man,
Close on to eighty, but still so smart;
It was only of late that he began
To stay in the house and doze apart.

But the fancy took him that afternoon
To go to the meadow to watch the men;
And as fast as I argued, just so soon
He went right over it all again;

Till, seeing how set he seemed to be,
I thought, with the air so warm and still,
It could not hurt him to go with me,
And sit for a little under the hill.

So, lending my arm to his feeble tread,
Together slowly we crossed the road,
While Jim and his cart ran on ahead
With a heap of pillows for wagon-load.

We made him a soft seat, cushioned about,
Of an old chair out of the barn close by;
Then Jim went off with a caper and shout,
While we sat silent, father and I.

For me, I was watching the men at work,
And looking at Jack, my oldest son—
So like his father! he never would shirk,
But kept straight on till the stint was done.

Seventeen was Jack that last July;
A great, stout fellow so tall and strong!
And I spoke to the old man by and by,
To see how fast he was getting along.

But father had turned away his head,
A following Jimmy's busy game
With the maple leaves, whose bloody red
Flared up in the sun like so much flame.

His lips, as he looked, began to move,
And I heard him mutter a word or two;
"Yes, Joe! A fire in Weston grove?
Just wait—one minute—I'll go with you!"

'Why father,' I cried, 'what do you mean?'
For I knew he talked of his brother Joe,
The twin that was drowned at scarce fifteen,
Sixty summers and more ago.

But still he nodded and looked and smiled,
Whispering something I could not hear!
Till, fairly frightened, I called the child,
Who left his play and came frolicing near.

The old man started out of his seat;
'Yes, Joe, yes; I'm coming,' said he.
A moment he kept his tottering feet,
And then his weight grew heavy on me

'Father,' I screamed; but he did not mind,
Though all came running about us then;
The poor old body was left behind,
And the twins were young together again.

And I wonder, sometimes, when I wake at night,
Was it his eyes or my own were dim?
Did something stand, beyond my sight,
Among the leaves, and beckon to him?

Well! there comes Jim up the intervale road:
Ten summers ago? yes, all of ten.
That's Baby Jack on the pumpkin load,
And Jim is as old as Jack was then,
—Harper's Magazine for June.

PHANTOM PICTURES.

We recently gave an account of the weird faces that were said to have made their appearance on the windows of certain houses in Milan, Ohio. We clip the following article from a late number of the Sandusky Register: "We have often heard the question why Sandusky and Milan only are the scenes of these strange phenomena. Our observations satisfy us that they are very general over the state, and, perhaps over the world. We discovered in North Fairfield, Huron county, Ohio, a few days ago, twelve of these pictures on one window of a sawmill. One of them, however, is a group of two persons—one a man with a hat on, the other a female, whose face appears immediately in front of the man, both looking out of the window. Some of the others have the appearance of ancient philosophers, and some bear quite a strong resemblance to Washington in his old age. Also in the house of the owner of the mill, on an upper window, there may be seen the pictures of three persons looking out of window, and there are several more on the windows of this house, to which it is not worth while to refer to especially. Also on an upper window on a large brick house there is a large pane of glass very strikingly stained, in which we can perceive two pictures. We called the attention of our friend, Dr. Faust, who by the way is no visionary, but a profound man, who believes in the reign of law, to these pictures, and his impressions agreed, in the main, with ours, after a little study of the stained glasses. Passing on from Fairfield to Plymouth, we discovered these pictures by the half dozen in town; one is of a cat in the post-office window,—a lower window on the left side of the door as you pass it. This outline is so distinctly defined that no one can fail to see it. On a window of another house there is one of a horse; the head and breast only shown. This is also a clearly defined outline. There are, also, on other windows in the same buildings pictures of persons, which it requires no great stretch of fancy to see. We called the attention of several persons to these pictures; some can see them and others cannot.

Nobody can give a satisfactory solution to these phenomena. If it is natural photographing, as some suggest, why did they not occur in times past? Some maintain that the proportions of the constituents of glass are different from what they used to be, that the stain on the glass is the result of the sun on new glass. But these pictures occur on glass of ancient date. Astronomers stated that over year a go the atmosphere of the sun would expand during the summer, of 1870, several millons of miles—that the effect on the earth would be very remarkable. If it is true that the atmosphere of the sun did expand last summer, it may be that the chemical effect of that luminary is different from what it used to be, and is the cause of the phenomena.

We believe that the best informed spiritual mediums say that spirits have nothing to do with the matter. But some humble ones say that it is the work of spirits; that they are paving the way to yet greater developements; that the veil which has so long shrouded the future from man is about to be lifted; and that the new dispensation is being ushered in. We have neither theory or belief about the matter, but look upon the phenomena as something very strange.

The North American of last week has the following:

"And in further answer answer to the Chicago Tribune, and all other journals refusing to believe that clothed in steel, from deck to keel, our future ships shall be, we point to the launch of the iron propeller steamship William Crane, 1,500 tons, costing $250,000, at Wilmington to-day. She is to run between Boston and Norfolk, touching at Baltimore. It is only four months since her construction began, and all her qualities are such as to induce belief that she will cause the speedy construction of many successors. Iron ships are no longer a novelty, and their advantage is no longer problematical. With the recovery of maritime business, we shall see their multiplication, until at sea, on the lakes and rivers, all our best vessels, and many of the cheap will be of iron.

The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in this country includes in its embrace nearly five thousand ministers and a half a million communicants. In view of this fact the recent action of the general assembly, during the meeting held in Chicago, is very significant. It declares that the use of intoxicating liquors, as a beverage, is contrary to the spirit of God's word, and inconsistent with the claims of Christian duty. It also affirms the conviction of the reprehensible complicity in the guilt of the aforesaid traffic, of those who knowingly rent their premises for such purpose, or it dorse licenses, or legalize it. And further, to give emphasis to this action the board of publication is directed to print an abstract of such former testimonies as cover the points referred to in the overtures, and send a copy to each minister in the church, with the direction of the assembly to read the same publicly from his pulpit.

Mr. Buchwalter, a resident of this county, is the posessor of a German Bible, which is really interesting to look at on account of its exceedingly old age. This Bible was translated from the Greek and published in Zurych, by Christofel Fraschouer, in the year 1551, which at the present time makes it three hundred and twenty years old. It has been in the Buchwalter family for the last two hundred and eighty years. This is both a curiosity and valuable relic.—Orrville Crescent.

State Republican Ticket.

Governor .....EDWARD F NOYES.
Lieut. Governor .....JACOB MUELLER.
Supreme Judge.....WILLIAM H. WEST.
State Treasurer.....ISAAC R. WELCH.
State Auditor.....JAMES WILLIAMS
Attorney-General.....E. B. POND.
School Commissioner.....T. W. HARVEY.
Clerk Supreme Court.....RODNEY FOOS.
Board Public Works.....S. R. HOSMER.

The Republican convention met at Columbus on last Wednesday, 21st inst. All reports concur in saying it was more largely attended than any previous body of the same character. Unanimity and harmony of feeling were obvious characteristics of the convention. Mr. Dennison was chosen president with the usual number of vice presidents and secretaries. In the selection of candidates there were no tedious ballotings, and in no case was it necessary to resort to more than the second trial. The ticket made out is regarded as a good one as far as popularity is concerned, and members of convention feel very sanguine of its success beyond a doubt. The names appear in the appropriate place in today's paper, in accordance with the usual custom. A platform fully in agreement with the feelings of the party was adapted. It was resolved that the republican party is entitled to the confidence of the American people for the judicious course it has pursued; commends the wisdom of adopting the constitutional amendments; favors protection of home manufactures; sustaining the administration for its success in conducting national affairs, reducing the national debt and taking proper measures to settle difficulties with Great Britain; opposes granting subsidies to corporations, and favors giving homesteads to the people; favors civil service reform; unites with all who favor unity of feeling among the American people, so that every one may enjoy equal, civil and political right without the fear of persecution and assassination; commends calling a convention for amending the state constitution; and eulogizing governor Hays for his success in administrating affairs of our state. Pretty good as far as it goes, but we see no evidence of advancement in several branches of reform which are now agitating the public mind, and are assuming a political aspect. For instance, the temperance question was entirely ignored—not a word in the platform about it. This may suffice for a while, but it went always be so. Indeed, it is more than intimated in some of the papers that there is one candidate on the ticket, an excellent and worthy man in many respects, who is down on temperance. He stands next in order to the governor. Perhaps we are mistaken in this impression—glad to be in error—but if there is any ground for it, we may be assured that the temperance ticket, made up of unexceptionable men, will recieve votes—hundreds if not thousands of them. Under such circumstances any party having the good of all in contemplation should not overlook the claims of humanity. Experience should teach partizens a lesson on this point. Thirty years age the whig and democratic parties paid no attention to the still small, voice of liberty, as it was then manifesting itself here and there all over the country, by giving a few votes in favor of some of the best of men then living. It grew—in about 1852 the whig party was crushed out by this once little party, and in 1860 the democratic party suffered a similar fate. Like results follow like causes always, and we utter no threats but hold up warnings for those who are susceptible to their premonitions, that they may govern themselves accordingly.

TYPOS AHEAD.—The republicans have nominated one who served an apprenticeship at the case, Gen. Noyes, for governor; and Jacob Mueller, candidate on the same ticket for lieutenant governor, if not a printer is first cousin to the craft, as he is editor of a German paper at Cleveland. T. W. Harvey, candidate for school commissioner, is another printer, and there may be more of the same sort on the same ticket for anything we know. How many printers are on the democratic state ticket we don't know, but they have one on the county ticket, Mr. John McGregor, candidate for clerk of court. Then there is vice president Colfax, at least a first consin to the craft, as he has been an editor, and may be printer too. Still the ambition of the brotherhood is not satisfied, for conspicuous among the names for candidate for next president is that of Horace Greeley, a regular bona fide printer, and when he gets old enough may well be termed one of the fathers of the art preservative in this country. The trade has representatives at the bar, on the bench, in the pulpit, among college professors, and a pretty fair quorum in congress. True, the brethren are not all Franklins, but in proportion to other callings we may claim a fair share of those who are worthy followers of the great philosopher.

Since the nomination of the republican state ticket there appears to be considerable enthusiasm in the leading men of the party. So far as the papers of the party have given expression in regard to the platform adopted it is represented that there is great unanimity of sentiment in its favor, It seems to us in nearly every point, the platform is a good basis for party action, as far as it goes; but as before intimated, it there is no progress made toward a higher political and moral standard, and that at an early day, retrogression will follow; for parties like persons cannot stand still without the risk of stagnation, then corruption, then ruin. The history of political organizations in our own country proves this position as clear as anything can be established from observation. The fate of two great parties is enough on this point.

For some months the New York Herald had special charge of president Grant, and took good care of him, shielding him by its expanding aegis from all sort of foes, lauded his political wisdom, and essayed to justify all his acts.

Some two months ago that paper did not exactly go back on the president but Gen. Sherman made a little speech at New Orleans in which he saw no kuklux down south, and everything was lovely there, so the Herald had him up for president, perhaps for three weeks. The General somehow found out what was going on, and he wrote to that paper a brief epistle in which he repudiated any such movement, and said he would not be president even if elected to the position, profering to follow the the profession of a soldier. Balked in this the Herald gently acquiesced in what general Sherman suggested, and now he has again assumed charge of Gen. Grant, and claims that he is the most promising candidate for next president, and will be re elected in face of all opposition. No doubt the Herald feels good over this satisfied state of things, and Gen. Grant and the rest of the country ought to enjoy a like confidence and repose.

Uncle Sam's detectives have just made a big haul at Cleveland, by arresting quite a crowd of counterfeiters and that stripe of evil doers. It required considerable skill on the part of the detectives, for those fellows they were after are a sharp set, and can smell danger as if they were so many bloodhounds. But they got best this time: some half dozen of them are now in jail.

The fact is noted in many papers as one political significance, that Judge Chase is in hearty sympathy with the new departure of the democracy, as planned by the late C. L. Vallandigham. It is supposed that the Judge has presidency on the brain pretty severely.

The notice of the Tuscarawas Valley Railroad prospects published last week, based on the the meeting of the canvassing committee which met at Cleveland a few days ago and which announced that $400,000 was subscribed, is looked upon here as a source of encouragement in behalf of the enterprise. $100,000 more is required to be raised, which will insure an early completion of the work. Our people here have been at work since with success, we are confident, as the interest felt among us is too great to permit them to be so indifferent as to let the opportunity pass unimproved And as interest in that behalf is awake here so it is elsewhere, and from what we can perceive of action among the people of neighboring towns practical success is contemplated. As before intimated our citizens have too much at stake to permit this enterprise to fail for lack of their support.

There was grim humor in the remark of the Rev. H. D. Northrop in his sermon in New York on Sunday, on the stock gambling fraud, that "if by accident one of these monsters (stock gamblers) reached the New Jerusalem he would ask the way to Wall street, and if there was no such place in the sacred city, he would go to hell rejoicing." Of course he could find Wall street there without a guide.

There is something to imitate even in the uncivilized Chinamen. They celebrate their holidays by paying debts, forgiving their enemies, and "shaking hands all round."

"Whisky is your greatest enemy," "But," said Jones, "dont the Bible say Mr. Preacher, that we are to love our enemies?" 'Oh, yes, Jones, but it dont say we are to swallow them."

An ugly old bachelor suggests that births should be published under the head of 'New Music.'

Benefit your friends, that they may love you still more dearly; benefit your enemies, that they may become your friends.

ONE MILLION OF LIVES SAVED!

It is one of the remarkable facts of this remarkable age, not merely that so many persons are victims of dyspepsia or indigestion, but its willing victims. Now we would not be understood to say that any one regards dyspepsia with favor, or feels disposed to rank it among the luxuries of life. Far from it. Those who have experienced its torments would scout such an idea. All dread it, and would gladly dispense with its unpleasant familiarities. There are diseases more acute and painful, and which more frequently prove fatal; but none, the effects of which are more distressing to the body. If there is a wretched being in the world it is

A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC.

But it not our intention to discant on the horrors of dyspepsia. To describe them truthfully is simply an impossibility. We have said that dyspepsia is perhaps the most universal of human diseases. This is emphatically the case in the United States. Whether this general prevalence is due to the character of the food, the method of its preparation, or the hasty manner in which it is usually swallowed, is not our province to explain. The great fact with which we are called to deal is this:

DYSPEPSIA PREVAILS

almost universally.

Nearly every other person you meet is a victim, an apparently willing one; for were this not the case, why so many sufferers, when a certain, speedy and safe remedy is within the reach of all who desire to avail themselves of it? But says a dyspeptic, What is this remedy? to which we reply, This great alleviator of human suffering is almost as widely known as the English language. This acknowledged panacea is none other than

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Would you know more of the merits of this wonderful medicine than can be learned from the experience of others? Try it yourself, and when it has failed to fulfil the assurance of its efficacy given by the proprietor, then abandon faith in it.

LET IT BE REMEMBERED

first of all, that Hoofland's German Bitters is not a rum beverage.

They are not alcoholic in any sense of the term. They are composed entirely of the pure juice or vital principle of roots. The extracts from which they are compounded are prepared by one of the ablest German chemists. The objections which hold with so much force against preparations of this class, namely—that a desire for intoxicating drinks is stimulated by their use, are not valid in case of the German Bitters. Their effects can be in all cases of the biliary system. Hoofland's German Bitters stand without an equal, acting promptly and vigorously on the liver; they remove its torpidity and cause healthful secretion of the bile. They impart vigor and strength to the entire system, causing the patient to feel like another being—in fact, giving him a new lease of life.

BENEFICIAL ONLY

THEY PURIFY THE BLOOD,

cleansing the vital fluid of all hurtful impurities and supplanting them with the elements of genuine healthfulness. In a word, there is scarcely a disease in which they cannot be safely and beneficially employed; but in the generally prevalent distressing and dreaded disease, dyspepsia,

THEY STAND UNRIVALED.

Now, there are certain classes of persons to whom extreme bitters are not only unpalatable, but who find it impossible to take them without positive discomfort. For such has been prepared. It is intended for use where a slight alcoholic stimulant is required. This tonic contains all the ingredients of the bitters, but so flavored as to remove the extreme bitterness.

HOOFLAND'S TONIC

acts with almost marvelous effect. It not only stimulates the flagging and wasting energies, but invigorates and permanently strengthens its action upon the liver and stomach thorough, perhaps less prompt than the Bitters, when the same quality is taken is none the less certain. Indigestion, biliousness; physical or nervous prostration, yield readily to its potent influence. It gives strength to weakness, throws dispondency to the winds, and starts the restored invalid upon a new and gladsome career. But Dr. Hoofland's benefactions to the human race are not confined to his celebrated or his invaluable Tonic. He has prepared another medicine, which is rapidly winning its way to popular favor because of its intrinsic merits. This is a perfect substitute for mercury, without any of mercury's evil qualities.

GERMAN BITTERS,

These wonderful pills which are intended to act upon the liver, are mainly composed of Podophyllin, or the

VITAL PRINCIPLE OF MANDRAKE ROOT.

Now we desire the reader to distinctly understand that this extract of the Mandrake is many times more powerful than the Mandrake itself. It is the medical virtues of this health giving plant in a perfectly pure and highly concentrated form. Hence it is that two of the Podophyllin pills constitue a full dose, while anywhere six to eight or a handful of other preperations of the Mandrake are required. The Podophyllin stimulating its functions and causing it to make its biliary secretions in regular and proper quantities. The injurious results which invariably follow the use of mercury is entirely avoided by their use.

Possessing desirable qualities, the Podophyllin becomes invaluable as a

FAMILY MEDICINE

No household shou'd be without them. They are perfectly safe, require but two for an ordinary dose are prompt and efficient in action, and when used in connection with Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, or Tonic, may be regarded as certain specifies in all cases of liver complaint dyspepsia, or any of the disorders to which the system is ordinarily subject. The act upon the stomach and bowels, carrying off improper obstructions, while the Bitters or Tonic purify the blood.

EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & Co., Druggists and Gen. Ag'ts, San Francisco, Cal., and 32 and 34 Commerce St., N.Y.

Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink. Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erisipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores, cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

DR. WHITTLESEY, ERQ:

Dear Sir:—Having stated it verbally to you, I have no hesitation in writing the fact, although not disposed in favor or to recommend patent medicines in general.

I do this more readily in regard to the sick headache cure prepared by Dr. Whittlesey, of Norwalk, Ohio. I have analyzed and tried it, and I recommend it as one of the best dyspepsia cures ever invented, and I feel that in recommending Whittlesey's cure I am doing an act of justice to the compounder of it, and an act of benevolence to those afflicted with dyspepsia and sick headache for which it is recommended.

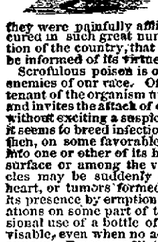
Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.



The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures, many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfelt tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of enfeebling or fatal disease, without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develop into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercles may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sarsaparilla is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find immediate relief, and, at length, cure, by the use of this SARSAPARILLA: St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, and other eruptions or visible forms of Scrofulous disease. Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, and the various Uterine affections of the muscular and nervous systems.

Syphilis or Venereal and Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. But long continued use of this medicine will cure the complaint. Leucorrhœa or Whites, Uterine Ulcerations, and Female Diseases, are commonly soon relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute Directions for each case are found in our Almanac, supplied gratis. Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of extraneous matters in the blood, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising, as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. This SARSAPARILLA is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are Languid and Listless, Despondent, Sleepless, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affections symptomatic of Weakness, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.

FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the Presbyterian church will give a festival on Thursday evening June 29th at the vacant lot of Mr. John McClymonds, on the corner of Main and Hill streest near the Presbyterian church. Ice cream, cake, berries, &c., will be served up to suit the tastes of the most exquisite. A fine art gallery is in process of preparation.

Admission 10 cents at the gate.

Our municipal authorities respectfully request that the laws and ordinances prohibiting the burning of crackers, torpedoes and other explosive materials be strictly obeyed on the Fourth. Those who sell these articles may avoid trouble if they desist from disposing of them, as there is responsibility incurred in thus violating the law. More or less danger is always attenddnt on the burning of powder, as somebody is liable to be wounded, property is endangered from fire, and horses are apt to become frightened and run off. If we want noise on that day which indicates joy and gladness let it consist in music, either of voice or instrumental or both, and in the eloquence of oratory. That will be pleasant, and instead of producing injury be a benefit to all who participate.

Mr Joseph Coleman has just put up a beautiful iron fountain in front of his residence, on Main street, which, for ornament and utility is highly creditable to his taste and good judgment.

Another band, and why not?—A number of our colored men have been holding consultations as to the feasibility of getting up a brass band. We have not ascertained what progress is made, but as the matter is broached and discussed it looks as if they mean business.

New potatoes are in town, and as they are the first the price is high, some $2.50 to $3 a bushel. But they will soon be cheaper as the coming crop is very promising.

Since strawberries have gone out, raspberries are taking their place, and part of the the time they are plenty. The blackberry crop gives promise of unusual abundance.

The Sunday School at St. Timothy's church, of this place. will hold its coming anniversary on next Sunday evening, commencing at 7:30 o' clock. The exercises will consist principally of music, vocal and and instrumental. As the friends of that Sunday school will make the occasion worthy of a visit it is hoped a general attendence will be had.

Mr. Tilton, in the last number of the Golden Age commends the religious class of people known as Swedenborgians for their efforts to abolish the practice of prefixing to their preacher's names the title of Rev. The lariff artiele concludes in there words: "It is bad enough to require men to wear black clothes, without compelling them to carry their trade mark." The denomination for many years called Disciples have also sensibly ignored the prefix, Rev., to the names of their preachers, regarding it as a species of assumption approaching blasphemy to apply such an adjective to designate any man.

Here last Sunday was a pleasant day to be out, the sun being hidden by clouds, and church going time, and it looked a little rain like. But several of the churches were generally well filled—especially was it the case at the Methodist, for there special attention was given to the Sandny school. The German churches hardly ever fail of full houses.

SOMETHING NEW.—The advance agent of the Female Minstrel Troupe, consisting of some eighteen performers, among whom are several of the finest artists in this country, will entertain our people in the Opera House this (Wednesday) evening. Wit and sentiment characterize their songs; burlesques, dramas, and farces, will add variety to the exhibition, and jig and fancy dancing enliven the entertainment. "Variety is the spice of life," and these people propose to favor their patrons with it in music, dancing, fun and wit. Everybody here is exceedingly partial to amusement, and we are assured that these visitors will present nothing that is repulsive to correct taste and refined sensibilities. So all who feel as if they would like to laugh and grow fat, call in the Opera House this evening and enjoy the merriment of the occasion. Reserved seats can be had free of extra charge by calling at Ryder's news depot.

The Pittsburgh Evening Chronicle, for sale daily by Mr. Crooks in the Opera building, is the neatest and most tastefully gotten up paper that comes from that city. Mr C. also keeps lots of other dailies, weeklies and monthlies constantly for sale, and a good many little knicknacks to fill up the chinks, including a full range of stationery.

The New York Sun which shines for all, is a shiney paper. Every day this Sun rises with the following burlesque tickets. Office holders' candidate for president, Useless S. Grant. Which looks as if the editor, Mr. Dana, don't expect an office from Gen. Grant. The other ticket reads thus: Farmers and mechanics' candidate for president, the great and good Horace Greeley, of Texas and New York. The nature of the editorial criticisms of these candidates is not hard to guess. Perhaps, these nominees can stand this distinction, if the writer can survive all his wit.

Having just invested in a supply of bill head, statement, plain flat cap, and other papers, card boards, &c., and being provided with types of the latest styles, we are prepared to accommodate customers at short notice with anything in our line. Call and see.

The Showmen's Railroad Guide, by A. W. Hall & Co, of Chicago, embodies a vast amount of information in the interest of showmen, traveling lecturers, and not only these but the public generally who have occasion to avail themselves of railroad facilities in going from one place to another. Full time tables are given and distances in miles from or to all the principal points between Pittsburgh and Chicago. These and many other useful things are given in regard to some thirty railroads.

Peter's Musical Monthly, of New York, for July gives thirty six pages of music, printed from full sized music plates—making thirteen pieces. Truly Mr. Peters says, that music can no longer be considered a luxury, to be had only at big prices, and by a comparatively few. Here are thirty six pages, all for thirty cents—certainly cheap enough to meet the wants of all desirous of investing in this pleasant, elevating class of art literature. This number begins volume eighth of the monthly.

Bro. Hardesty of the Anderson Herald, Indiana, says he has just ascertained that whisky will kill potato bugs. If that proves a sure kill here we suggest that a big portion of the r— g—t be appropriated for the benefit of the potatoes. Better use it to kill bugs than permit it to slay any more biped bugers.

Our farmers last week began to cut grain; and thus far it is turning out finely. Rather to talk of rust, fly and all that sort.

The Song Messenger, for July, published by Root & Cady is one of those popular, lively music journals, the examination of whose contents will inspire a feeling of joy and pleasure. This number gives half a dozen pages of choice music beside a number of articles of music literature. Chicago.

From present indications we shall be pretty quiet here on the coming Fourth, as our merchants propose closing their stores. The probability is, that a good many of our people will assist in celebrating the day elsewhere, as they are working at it all around us. Having no celebration dont cost any thing, but it looks a little dull.

Ever since the proposed race between Mr Paul's horse and Sole Leather Dick, a few days ago, there has been a vast supplies of horse talk, and several stakes of ice cream are pending on the result.

The recent heavy rains which furnished such liberal supplies of water has deformed some of the streets and alleys considerably by removing plentiful supplies of earth. Repairs are needed in some localities.

The genius of murder, in the shape of intemperance, is constantly pursuing its bloody work. One day last week the New York dailies shocked the sensitive part of community by narrating the particulars of a triple murder, resulting from a case of delirium tremens. Dr. Connolly of that place took two of his little daughters into a room, under some plausible pretext, looked the door and then deliberately almost severed their heads from their bodies, ending the tragedy by cutting his own throat A horrible sight was presented to the mother when the door was forced open by the police.

The Wellsville Union, of the 22d inst. narrates the particulars of a drunken tragedy which occurred in that place on the 19th inst. Mr. John Groner proprietor of the Missouri Houre. was struck on the head with a piece of iron by Daniel Smith. After the murder a coroner's jury was impannelled, who after a full examination of the occurrence decided that Groner came to his death at the hands of Daniel Smith. Smith immediately gave himself up and was taken to jail to await trial. There is nothing very singular about these cases, as we can find similar occurrences narrated almost daily in some part of the country, arising from intemperance, but one is of such a terrible nature, and the other so near home, that we prefer to make a note of them.

Bro. Ringely preached a searching and able temperance sermon on Sunday evening to a good sized audience in the M. E. church, which was listened to with profound attention, and gave general satisfaction to all who were present. We hope he will keep up the work whenever in his judgment, it is expedient, and that others will imitate his good example.

Reynolds, Sisler & Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Manchester scythe stones, are increasing their facilities, and vigorously entering on a new year in their business. Their productions have achieved an extensive reputation, and are becoming more and more known among business and practical men.

Judge Swan has been engaged for many months past on a complete revision of his Treatise for Justices of the Peace of Ohio. This thoroughly tested and able book has held its deservedly high rank for nearly thirty years. It has been jestingly said to be of more weight and authority with some justices than the acts of the legislature themselves. The present revision, with its numerous changes and alterations, adapting it to the existing state of the law of Ohio, will render the book more deserving than ever of public confidence. Robert Clarke & Co., Cincinnati, are the publishers.—Cincinnati Gazette.

To be up with the times McLain, Dangler & Co. have just had an awning put up in front of their store—a very useful appendage in these long, hot sunshiny days.

The following table of distances from Pittsburgh to Chicago, and vice versa, will be found convenient for reference for any who wish to travel by rail. It indicates the miles between more than thirty pieces on the road. The distance between this place, for instance, to any of the points on the road, can easily be ascertained, as between this place and Mansfield, Crestline, and Ft. Wayne, or any other town, either east or west, on the road.

So far as we have heard an expression of opinion on the subject, there is a general aversion to having those useless, noisy, and annoying fire crackers, torpedoes and similar nuisances, creating their din and disturbing the peace of community, especially on the 4th of July. There is or used to be a law or ordinance, we believe, preventing such things, and if it is not dead should be enforced for the satisfaction of all peace loving people.

The Hess brothers are about building a brick house of two stories on Erie street, immediately north of the shop they now occupy, which is the property of Mr. J. E. McLain.

The present session of school terminates to-morrow, when a vacation of two months will follow. This will give the little and big ones a fine chance for a long play time.

Candidates are circulating in these parts pretty freely, to see about their political chances, and lay the ropes for future prospects. They are very friendly and given to hand shaking, a practice long since indulged in.

There is talk of another horse trot to-morrow—this time between Mr. Paul's horse and Sole Leather Dick, property of Mr. Young—$100 a side. In connection with this reports confirm the idea that our horse owners and probably others are taking measures to have a trotting park a little east of town, near the road to Canton. It is contemplated, we are informed, that ground for that purpose has been purchased or soon will be, thus making it a permanent institution. But while the location is designed for the purpose above stated, there is a probability that the place may used for other public conveniences, as it will be well adapted for large collections of people; and since the old fair ground has been denuded of trees, this place might be made to answer the purposes to which that was appropriated.

The last street preaching we had here was by a long haired reverend soap man, and an M. P. or medicine peddler. All these parties carried and used very glib tongues, and could talk.

The terra cotta statuary which was placed in the park last Saturday attracted no little attention, as every passer by involuntarily stopped to admire and examine the several pieces there exhibited. We are informed it was placed there on exhibition, and is not to permanently remain—though its presence would be welcome to our citizens all the time. It is manufactured at Alliance.

In the beautiful poem, Under the Maple, on first page, the following lines were unfortunately left out, which fact was not discovered until that side was worked off. They comprise the 18th stanza.

"The sun has dazzled you; don't you see
That is n't a fire a-blazing there?
It's only Jim, by the maple tree,
Tossing the red leaves into the air."

It is perhaps not too late to remind some of the press gang of this district that the editorial fraternity are to meet on to-morrow at Alliance. The brethren there have welcomed all such visitors, and it is hoped a full attendance will be present. The object is business.

LIGHT! MORE LIGHT.—Lamp posts are now being put up in various parts of town, and some half dozen are erected in the park. So we shall soon not be dependant entirely on the furnaces, when there is no sun, no moon, and no stars to guide our rambles at night, but have good, orthodox gas light by which to direct our footsteps, and thus avoid the ways that are dark.

The Massillon Carriage Factory, now owned by Mr. I. N. Doxsee, and under the management of Mr. George Archer, find no difficulty in selling their work. The truth is, they can't get ahead with work, but are kept closely employed to meet the wants of their customers. They have now on hand quite a number of fine carriages, of various classes which will soon be in condition to appear before the public. Their working forces are a busy set

During a thunder storm on Tuesday evening of last week (the 20th) a steer belonging to Wm. Maxheimer, who lives a short distance west of town was suddenly killed by lightning.

One day last week, we are informed, a car load of Chinamen passed this place on their way east. Perhaps to Massachusetts, as it is said some parties there have been recently sending for a few more of this class.

According to the meteorological record kept by Dr. Watson of this place the aggregate amount of water which fell up to the first of June—five months—was 7 and 8-10th inches, and the quantity which fell during this month up to the 26th was 8 and 1-10th inches. So that more water fell by about 3-10ths of an inch in the last 26 days than did the previous 151 days. More than eight inches of water all over the ground would make it pretty wet.

Bro. Kennedy of the Home Circle, Chicago, keeps up the interest of his monthly by publishing a large amount of reading matter. The July number contains an article, Methods in the Temperance Reform, by Prof. A. Blunt, Salem, Ohio, which it would be well for all to read.

The last Alliance Local says that burglars have been very industrious at the cross roads for several nights, making free with other peoples' property. Such scamps might get marked with powder for their rascally doings.

The Printers' Journal, of Cincinnati, is a new organ of its class, but it makes a most favorable impression on all the craft who see it, on account of its neat appearance and well filled pages.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Wednesday Ev'g, June 21, 1871.

Regular Session—G. L. Russell presiding, Roll Call—Members present, Messrs. Russell, Kirkland, Crone, and Willenborg.

Minutes read and approved.

The Street Commissioner submitted his regular report for work done on streets and alleys for the week ending June 17th, to be $63.

The committee on water works to whom was referred the petition of E Chidester and others, reported that they had conferred with the water company, and that they could not put up any more plugs at present, as the lease between the city and said water company has nearly expired.

Mr. Willenborg moved that the committee on water works be instructed to consult the water company and ascertain on what terms and for what length of time a lease can be made, the water company to extend the water to all parts of the city. Motion prevailed.

The committee to whom was referred the bridge across Sippo creek on Muskingum st. reported that said bridge needs re building and lengthening.

Mr. Crone moved that the same committee be instructed to have the bridge re-built and lengthen it six feet on the south side of said creek, to sink the abutments 2 feet below the bed of the creek and to pave the said bed with good cobble stones. Motion prevailed.

The following bills were allowed and orders drawn for the amounts.

Jos Seiler for the balance due on North street contract, work done on Center street and sundry other work, $492,82.

Andrew Crone, by order of John Hewes, $20.

Johnathan Crooks, for putting up pendants and burners in city prison $12,50.

There being no further business the council adjourned.

NOT CONSUMPTION.

We have on our books of record the name, age, residence, date, disease and prescription of every case treated by us during the last twenty years. In these books are contained the names of over sixty thousand persons, and more than two hundred thousand prescriptions. In this vast number of cases, every kind and variety of disease have fallen under our observation, and every form of treatment has been fully tested.

In consumption and lung diseases, we have had ample opportunity to test not only every kind of treatment, but every kind of medicine.

We know that there are many cases of disease that so nearly resemble consumption, but which is not; that without a very careful diagnosis, serious mistakes might be made, which would lead to very prejudical results in the treatment. It is the duty of every physician to ascertain, as nearly as possible, the precise nature of every malady before prescribing. "No more certain sign is offer- in disease than is found in urinary secretion,' says Simon. And in this disease, we are especially favored with indications in the urine which enables us to determine not only the facts relative to the true nature thereof, but to measure tolerably correct the extent of the same.

We have thus detected and determined the extent of hundreds of cases of consumption, many of which, being incipient only, have been cured by us in a very short time. And whilst we would not hold out inducement or promise a cure in the last stage of this dreadful malady, we would just say, that we have cured many cases that it was impossible to determine the fact by any other means than by examination of the urinary secretion.

Among these we might mention liver complaint, dyspepsia, heart disease, female weakness, &c.

These diseases oftimes much resemble consumption in many particulars. They may come on with cough and expectoration of blood and mucus, night sweats, &c. These symptoms are taken for consumption, and the patient is informed the case is a hopeless one, when perhaps it was yet as curable as nine-tenths of our most common diseases, and when some prompt and efficacious remedy administrated for the real disease would dispel it in a very short time.

We have cured many cases of this kind, even after they had been abandoned as hopelessly consumpted by their relatives as well as their physician. Whilst there is life there hope in such cases.

A Chapter of Facts.

Space is valuable in a newspaper, and it is therefore proposed in this advertisement to condense a variety of facts, important to the public, into a small compass. Those facts refer to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—what that celebrated medicines is, and what it will do. In the first place, then, the article is a stimulant, tonic and alterative, consisting of a combination of an absolutely pure spirituous agent with the most valuable medicinal vegetable substances that Botanic research has placed at the disposal of the chemist and the physician. These ingredients are compounded with great care, and in such proportions as to produce a preparation which invigorates without exciting the general system, and tones, regulates and controls the stomach, the bowels, the liver, and the minor secretive organs.

What this great restorative will do must be gathered from what it has done. The case of dyspepsia, or any other form of indigestion, in which it has been persistently administered without effecting a radical cure, is yet to be heard from, and the same may be said of bilious disorders, intermittent fever, nervous affections, general debility, constipation, sick headache, mental disabilities to which the feeble are so subject. It purifies all the fluids of the body, including the blood, and the gentle stimulous which it imparts to the nervous system is not succeeded by the slightest reaction. This is a chapter of facts which readers, for their own sakes, should mark and remember.

These pills are the most elightfully pleasant purgative, superseding castor oil, salts, magnetia, etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give tone and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. They are composed of the finest ingredients. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Catawaba Grape Pills are not sugar coated, from the fact that sugar coated pills do not dissolve, but pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. The Catawaba Grape Pills; being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar coated, Price 50 cents per box.

MAKE THE TABLE PLEASANT

Our health, and consequently our happiness, depends not only on what we eat, but how and when. There has been much speculation and philosophizing, and many dissertations written in regard to the kind of food we shall eat; but the influence that time and circumstances have in rendering our meals sources of pleasure has been almost wholly ignored. It is around the table that families and friends meet—often the only time in the twenty-four hours—to exchange greetings and make inquiries regarding each other's welfare. It would seem to be unnecessary to assert these meetings should be characterized by cheerful countenances and kind words; and that there should be perfect neatness and cleanliness in the persons attire of those having places there, as well as in the appointments of the table itself. There is, however, as much dissimilarity in the conduct, and tables, of families in the same social circle, as there is in the character and surroundings of different individuals. In one home, we find a well spread board, attended with all the grace and courtesy that refinement and education can bestow; in another we find the same food turned to bitterness by the spirit of evil and fault finding. Some of the happiest hours of our life have been passed where the food was plain, but so sweetened by love and good will, that the memory of them will always be cherished: and again, have we partaken of meals where every luxury abounded, but they were eaten in silence, or amid such chilly remarks, or the rudeness of children, that we resolved that nought but the direct necessity would again tempt us to make a sacrifice of our comfort and time. Besides these instances, we have seen in families where wealth and appearance would justify a hoping for better things, the tables whose arrangement and condition of the linen was such as to banish all desire for food.

That these daily meetings of the family should be pleasant, and that it is the duty of every one to contribute towards making them so, will be conceded by all; but like all other duties it is grossly neglected. There are but comparatively few persons that feel the necessity of religiously observing the small, sweet courtesies of life upon these occasions, in preference to any others. Ill nature should be banished, and no remarks indulged that will tend to wound the feeling of child or friend. If there are disagreeable subjects to be discussed, or faults reproved, some opportunity besides these should be chosen. How often do we finedthe father or mother—perhaps both parents—coming to the table, wearied in body and mind, and proclaiming in their countenances the extent of their troubles, or by harsh words, marring the enjoyment of all present.

Ill nature is the parent of ill manners; and the latter soon becomes part of the former; and at no time or place are they so repulsive as around the family board.

The deportment at the table betokens the lady or gentleman; and the conduct of children exemplifies the character of the home training with unfailing certainty. We would urge the necessity of cheerfulness and good manners at meal time, not only as a civilizer and promoter of happiness, but also as a hygienic measure.

All civilized nations regard the pleasures of the table as among the chiefest; lingering long and beguiling the time by cheerful conversation. Our American people, are, to a great extent, exceptions to this—taking their meals as it the weightiest matters depended upon the facility and rapidity with which they are dispatched. The making haste to be rich is so universal, that it is not so much a matter of surprise that business men should contract such habits, with customers waiting or dollars to lose, while they are enjoying their meals surrounded by their families; but that farmers and others, having leisure to linger, should not do so, it is wholly unaccountable.

Food taken when under the influence of excitement, passion, fatigue, or in haste, so far from answering the purpose intended is positively deleterious; and dyspepsia, with all its attendant horrors is but the result of the habitual disregard of Nature's laws. Thus we find that how we eat has an effect upon us, morally and physically, quite as great as what we eat. Every individual should endeavor to make these family reunions contribute to the well being of both natures, and while we satisfy the needs of our corporeal organization, let there be also times for the exercise of kindness, and for that reason looked for with light.—Prairie Farmer.

Not a day passes in obscurity but men and women do great deede, speak great words, and suffer great sorrows. Of these obscure heroes, philosophers, and martyrs, the greater part will not be known till that day when many that are great shall be small, and the small great.

It is not a knowledge of obstruse and difficult questions that we need, so much as familiarity with the every day affairs of life.

That funny fellow, Billings, says 'Good whistlers are getting putty skarse; seventy five years ago they were plenty, but the desire tew get rich or tew hold offis has tuke all the pucker out of this honest and cheerful amusement.'

The worst coughs yield, as if by magic, to the wonderful curative powers of Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical discovery. It also surpasses anything ever before discovered for the cure of pimples, blotches and rashes on the face; also for erysipelas, salt rheum, and all skin and scrofulous diseases. Sold by druggists.

Dr. J. LONG,

Eclectic Physician,

Has located himself at Massillon, O, for the treatment of Female & Chronic Diseases.

Office east of the Park, second door of Mr Folke's new building

All consultations and examinations of patients made free of charge.

Dr. Long examines and explains your disease without asking any questions. If he understands your case you know it, and cannot be deceived. If he cannot tell you disease, and how you feel without asking questions he does not consider himself competent to treat your case. This is the criterion to go by, and patients should not be satisfied with any other. This is the only direct and positive evidence of my ability as a scientific physician, and by this standard I am willing to be judged.

A proper diagnosis of local disease, without constitutional symptoms, that is, not affecting the system generally, must depend upon the judgement of both patient and physician.

Give Dr Long a call, and satisfy yourselves whether he understands your cases sufficiently well to treat them successfully.

Dr Long may be consulted in the German and English languages. Address letters,

Which are now offered to the public, are pronounced by all the celebrated Opticians of the World to be the Most Perfect. Natural, Artificial help to the human eye ever known

They are ground under their own supervision, from minute Crystal Pebbles, melted together, and derive their name, 'Diamond,' on account of their hardness and brilliancy

THE SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLE on which they are constructed brings the core or center of the lens directly in front of the eye, producing a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural, healthy sight, and preventing all unpleasant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of sight, dizziness, &c, peculiar to all others in use

They are Mounted in the Finest Manner in frames of the best quality, of all materials used for that purpose.

Their Finish and Durability cannot be surpassed

CAUTION.—None genuine unless bearing their trade mark ⟷ stamped on every frame. JOSEPH COLEMAN, Manhood: how Lost, how Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S Celebrated Essay on the radical cure, without medicine, of Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price in a sealed envelope only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife, pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid on receipt of six cents or two post stamps.

Also, Dr. Culverwell's "marriage Guide," price 25 cents.

Continues to treat all private diseases, syphilis in all its forms, gonorrhœa, gleet, stricture, orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated. spermatorrhœa or seminal weakness and impotency, resulting from self abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are perm anently cured.

It is self evident that the physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and, treats thousands of cases every year must acquire a greater skill in that speciality than one in general practice.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be sent by mail or express.

The doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail, in sealed envelope, for two stamps. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
